How to leverage billions of dollars in Los Angeles County
Leading a nonprofit organization is never easy, especially these days. Leaders are faced with a world where doing more with less is an everyday occurrence. This Toolkit helps nonprofits leverage an overlooked opportunity: planned giving. Planned gifts are helpful in two ways: they can help sustain your organization with guaranteed revenue streams, and provide peace of mind for all concerned. Planned gifts are a win-win: donors create a lasting legacy and so do the organizations they support.

The Toolkit you are holding in your hands provides the steps and turn-key templates you need to effectively, efficiently and confidently start a planned giving program. You will be pleasantly surprised at how easy it is. Read on and begin today.
WHY NOW? $5 BILLION IS WHY

During the next eight years, Los Angeles County residents will transfer almost $114 billion in assets between generations. By 2060, that figure is projected to reach $1.4 trillion. That means Angelenos will be responsible for the dispersal of more assets than many other major metropolitan areas. People don’t have to be billionaires to make a planned gift; there are options for people with only a few personal assets. The result is philanthropic potential that exceeds any period in the region’s history. For example, just $5 billion would fund all of the operating expenses for more than 75 percent of L.A.’s active nonprofits for the next 10 years.

Picture it. Just ONE planned gift could:

- Allow an all-volunteer organization to hire one full-time staff member
- Fund the purchase of a building or office
- Provide a revenue cushion during hard economic times
- Feed more families, fund more arts programs, save more animals, shelter more homeless people… or make your mission a reality in your community

Actually, billions of dollars will change hands among Angelenos over the next several years. Just a small piece of that can sustain your organization.
WHAT IS PLANNED GIVING, ANYWAY?

Planned giving is the transfer of assets (e.g., real estate, stock or life insurance) to a designated nonprofit organization during a lifetime or upon someone’s passing. Usually this happens via a will or other written means. The giving is “planned” because often these assets are not liquid, have tax consequences or can be used to simultaneously generate income for donors.

WHY PLAN? BECAUSE STUFF HAPPENS

People in a variety of circumstances and life stages can benefit from a planned gift. Planned gifts are really just preparing for or reacting to life’s events: a windfall from the sale of a business; the need to generate a revenue stream for elderly parents; the desire to counter an increase in one’s tax liability; the birth of a child or grandchild; the establishment of a trust; annual planning; or the acquisition of new assets.

People have many opportunities to review their future giving plans, so it is never too soon to plant the seed for planned giving. Careful estate planning can also help people live a legacy as well as leave a legacy.
THE TOOLS YOU NEED TO GET STARTED

Diversification of funding sources is essential as foundation and government money grows unreliable and requires more administrative time and support. Individual giving, then, is more important than ever — and planned giving is an essential component to long-term individual giving success. Individual donors rarely require the endless reporting and evaluation requirements of institutional funders. Start with the people you know...who know you best. One or two planned gifts can make a difference to many organizations.

The good news is that it doesn’t take any money to start a program. Time is money, you say? The materials contained in the back of this Toolkit will save you time, so that you can spend it on building and deepening your relationships with donors. They will help you:

- Engage your board of directors
- Deepen relationships with donors and make the “ask” easy
- Gain the confidence and language you need to start conversations with donors and follow through
- Set up planned giving information for websites, annual reports, etc.
- Customize a brochure that you can hand directly to donors

Consult the customizable templates in the back of this Toolkit for all the details you need to get started.
YOU DON’T HAVE TO BE AN EXPERT, JUST KNOW ONE

Don’t be intimidated by the legal and financial issues associated with different types of planned gifts. You don’t have to be an expert, you just need to know one. There are resources for both your organization and your donor that offer experience in setting up different types of planned gifts.

And these resources need not cost money. Some community foundations have established turn-key programs that cost nothing up front. Only a small fee is taken at the time that the asset is distributed to your organization. Likewise, there are many lawyers who will do this work pro bono for nonprofit organizations.

Program a couple of phone numbers into your cell phone, and you’ve done all you need to do. The experts will take it from there.

Community Foundation

Community foundations are public charities that serve as nonprofit resources for local communities to encourage and benefit from philanthropy. Many community foundations can assist small nonprofits with the administration of different types of planned gifts, including charitable gift annuities and retained life estates. Generally, there are no fees associated with the start-up or disbursement of the fund. There is, however, a small fee (usually 1-2 percent of assets) for managing the fund. The partnership between the nonprofit organization and the community foundation begins at the moment a planned gift is being considered.

Volunteer Professional

Another option is identifying an attorney willing to donate time on an as-needed and pro bono basis. Many lawyers have standardized language that can be provided to donors for writing planned gifts into wills and trusts. Often, organizations can call on their board members for this express purpose. Consider adding an estate-planning attorney to your board roster. The board member’s time could be counted toward his or her annual financial contribution.

Partnering organizations have varying gift acceptance policies. Please consult with your partners about their parameters before engaging in a planned gift. For information about community foundations and other resources, please refer to the list provided in the back of the Toolkit.

"It’s too complicated..."

SIX EASY STEPS TO CREATING A LEGACY SOCIETY

leg-a-cy so-ci-e-ty [leg-uh-see] [suh-sahy-i-tee], noun. An important key to planned giving.

A legacy society is a group of individuals who convey their values by creating a future gift to your organization. It costs nothing to establish, deepens existing relationships, provides a means by which you can honor donors, and creates a sense of belonging for donor members. Best of all, it focuses the conversation on being an active donor; philanthropic giving that begins now and makes meaningful long-term contributions.

1. Create
   - Creating a legacy society is as easy as saying you have one. You can give it a specific name or not. No legal documents needed.

2. Honor
   - Determine what benefits you can offer legacy society members now and where you can post names, host an annual luncheon, etc.

3. Recruit
   - Make donors who have already pledged a planned gift founding members; use the templates to reach out to donors with whom you have existing relationships.

4. Integrate
   - Integrate information about the new legacy society into all your materials using the templates. Share information with members about planned giving options that they may not even know exist.
In short, a legacy society is a deferred form of individual giving. And if you think about it that way, it won’t be so daunting. There is no legal paperwork and no cost associated with its creation or management. If you say you have one, then you do. If you have an individual giving program in place, a legacy society builds on and deepens your existing relationships.

5. Identify
Establish a board member as the chairperson or champion of the legacy society to build awareness among donors and ensure board support.

6. Work
Work with a community foundation or other partner to set up specific gifts: life income gifts such as charitable gift annuities, charitable remainder trust or a retained life estate.

Starting a legacy society costs absolutely nothing. Say you have one and you’re more than halfway there.
Your planned giving partner will know all the information on these pages, so you don’t have to. However, if you are an overachiever who would like a better understanding of planned giving options, here are four types of gifts you can offer with the support of planned giving partners. For the rest of you, stop reading and turn the page.

Charitable Gift Annuity

Ideal for people who want to give an asset to charity and receive a fixed income over the rest of their lives. After the donor makes the initial gift, the administrator, such as a community foundation or large nonprofit, makes fixed payments to the donor (or a designated beneficiary) for life. After the donor(s) passes away, the designated charity such as your nonprofit is the beneficiary of the remainder of the annuity.

Charitable Remainder Trust

Another option for people who want to give an asset to charity and receive income over the rest of their lives, or a term of years. After the donor makes the initial gift, the charity makes payments to the donor (or designated beneficiary) for life or the set period, based on a percentage of the asset’s value. After the donor(s) passes away, the designated charity such as your nonprofit is the beneficiary of the remainder of the trust.

Retained Life Estate

An option for people who own a home and intend to remain living there. Donor gifts property in return for an immediate tax deduction. Upon donor(s)’ passing, proceeds from sale of house are received by the designated charity such as your nonprofit.

Bequest

Gift of any amount through a will, trust, life insurance policy or IRA. Such gifts often exist side-by-side with bequests to heirs or other organizations.
In addition to the satisfaction of a meaningful gift, planned gifts may offer immediate and long-term benefits. This chart provides a basic overview of four popular options.

DON’T WANT TO TALK ABOUT DEATH? DON’T

Planned giving mistakenly gets a reputation as a taboo subject. You don’t have to talk about death, dying or diverting assets from family heirs. A legacy society allows you to focus the conversation on the present — while still talking about the future. Legacy society members should be thought of as active donors. By using the language and tips provided in this Toolkit, you can feel confident in your ability to treat the matter with respect and dignity.

Here are four proven frames for starting a conversation about planned giving. Insert your cause or issue into these forward-thinking approaches:

1. Sustainability
   “The needs of this community (hunger, homelessness, etc.) are ongoing. A legacy gift ensures that our organization will be around years from now to fulfill those needs.”

2. Next Generation
   “Legacy gifts ensure the well-being of future generations and serve as an inspiration to others to do the same.”

3. Heritage
   “You understand the importance of preserving our rich heritage and cultural identity. Legacy gifts provide donors a meaningful way to ensure this lasts decades into the future.”

4. Personal Legacy
   “Becoming a member of our legacy society ensures that the issues you care about and the values you cherish will be long remembered.”

Planned giving conversations don’t have to be one-on-one with donors. The elements of this Toolkit will help you start a dialogue at a higher level — introducing the idea of planned giving and reinforcing it in a variety of places: through mail and email, on your website, in customizable materials, annual reports and at events.

Individual Donor Continuum

- ONE-TIME DONATION → ANNUAL SUPPORT → MAJOR GIFT → LEGACY GIFT
OK, NOW WHAT?

After reviewing this Toolkit, you should be ready and eager to start a legacy society. Start integrating planned giving into your development program today by using the customizable tools and language at the back of this folder.

Engage Your Board Members

Use this Toolkit as a starting point.

Customize the “You Can Create Your Own Legacy!” Brochure

Add your logo in the spot designated “Your logo here.”

Personalize and Use the Enclosed Letters

Send electronic and/or hard copies by mail.

Identify a Potential Partner From the “Planned Giving Resources” List

Visit their website and program their contact information into your cell phone.

So hurry — your share of $5 billion is waiting!

“I don’t know how to talk about death…”

Start the conversation on a positive note by talking about encouraging sustainability, conserving cultural heritage and creating personal legacies.
STILL NEED CONVINCING?

“As a younger organization that’s still growing our base of individual donors, planned giving will be a critical component moving forward. The importance of this as a future revenue stream for our long-term sustainability cannot be understated.”

—CELIA C. AYALA, PH.D., CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER, LOS ANGELES UNIVERSAL PRESCHOOL (LAUP)

“Starting a planned giving program doesn’t cost a thing, and it takes a lot less time than you think. By starting now, we’ve made a long-term investment in our future.”

—GREGORY PIERRE COX, VICE PRESIDENT FOR DEVELOPMENT, SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PUBLIC RADIO

“As our community is aging, we feel a sense of urgency to help individuals become aware of gift planning tools and resources available which will enable them to benefit their own families and support the community at the same time.”

—SHAWN MIYAKE, PRESIDENT & CEO, KEIRO SENIOR HEALTHCARE

“The Library Foundation of Los Angeles was the recipient of a very generous estate gift that endowed the Adult Literacy Program. Planned gifts help ensure that the programs of the Library Foundation of Los Angeles will be there for future generations.”

—REBECCA SHEHEE, VICE PRESIDENT FOR ADVANCEMENT AND EXTERNAL AFFAIRS, LIBRARY FOUNDATION OF LOS ANGELES

“Aviva is ready to add planned giving options to our current fundraising efforts. By using CCF’s helpful tools and resources, we don’t have to become overnight experts at planned giving just to get started.”

—REGINA BETTE, PRESIDENT & CEO, AVIVA FAMILY AND CHILDREN’S SERVICES

“Getting Out By Going In is ready to grow from a small, grassroots, volunteer-driven effort to an organization that can meet the growing needs of our community. By starting a planned giving program, we begin to broaden the support we receive and make critical strategic decisions for our long term services to the community.”

—COACH MARA LEIGH TAYLOR, FOUNDER, GETTING OUT BY GOING IN (GOGI)
You don’t have to be an expert at planned giving, you just need to know one. There are resources for both your organization and your donor that offer experience in setting up different types of planned gifts. And these resources need not cost money. Some community foundations have established turn-key programs that cost nothing up front. Only a small fee is taken at the time that the asset is distributed to your organization. Likewise, there are many lawyers who will do this work pro bono for nonprofit organizations.

YOU CAN CREATE YOUR OWN LEGACY!

Making a difference is important to you. Charitable giving is an important part of your life and your core values. Like many people, you’d like to know that the causes and organizations you care about today will continue to thrive in the future.

The good news is you don’t have to be Andrew Carnegie or Bill Gates to start a meaningful philanthropic legacy. In addition to supporting the work of your favorite organizations through cash donations, consider making a planned gift.

WHAT IS PLANNED GIVING?

Planned giving is a win-win approach to philanthropic donations that supports your favorite nonprofit organization and can benefit you now or in the future. Have you ever made a vehicle donation to benefit your favorite charity? If you have, you know that transferring assets is easy and it can provide tax benefits as well. Simply put, “planned giving” is the transfer of assets to a designated nonprofit organization during a lifetime or as part of an estate plan. This forward-thinking approach to giving is “planned” because often these assets are not liquid, have tax consequences and are generally transferred via a will or other written means.

It’s easy.

Planned giving is easy to do and you don’t have to be wealthy to do it. Whether it is naming your favorite charity in your will or trust for a modest amount, or a gift of house and property, there is an easy option that is right for you.

It can involve assets you might never think of.

A life insurance policy. Real estate. Stocks. Business holdings. A checking or savings account. These are all assets that can be leveraged in planned gifts.

It can generate an income stream.

In return for the donation of real estate, stocks or other assets, donors can receive a series of regular payments.
It can provide generous tax benefits.

Depending upon the type of gift, short-term and/or long-term tax benefits may apply. Donors at a variety of income levels can benefit. Be sure to consult with your financial or estate planner for more specifics.

It can work in tandem with other family priorities.

Planned giving is not an “all or nothing” option. Gifts can exist side-by-side with other beneficiaries and personal priorities.

It is long remembered.

Designating a planned gift automatically makes you a member of the organization’s legacy society. Legacy society members often receive immediate recognition on an organization’s website, in publications and receive invitations to special events.

In addition to the satisfaction of making a meaningful gift, most planned gifts have immediate and/or long-term tax benefits. The chart below can help you find the type of gift that is right for you. Consult with your financial advisor or estate planner and join the legacy society of your favorite nonprofit organization today.

You do not need to be wealthy to leave a legacy. Make your core values known by joining the (INSERT ORGANIZATION (ORG) NAME HERE) and making a planned gift to (INSERT ORG NAME). Members of our legacy society are generous and forward-thinking donors who will support our long-term success and be long remembered.

In addition to supporting our work through your generous cash donations, here are other ways you can contribute to the sustainability of (INSERT ORG MISSION) in the long term. Many of these options are a win-win for the donor and the organization. We encourage you to consult with your financial advisor to discuss the tax implications of these options.

- Bequests

  One of the easiest ways to help involves simply naming (INSERT ORG NAME) as a beneficiary in your will and living trust. A bequest may be for a particular dollar amount or percentage of your estate. Estate tax savings may be significant.

- Life Insurance Policy and Retirement Assets

  Often overlooked by donors, naming (INSERT ORG NAME) as a partial beneficiary of these assets can provide support for the organization.

- Life Income Gifts

  Life income gifts allow you to leave a gift in the care of (INSERT ORG NAME), while earning income for yourself during your lifetime. The two most popular life income gifts are charitable remainder trusts and charitable gift annuities.

- Complex Gifts

  If you are a business owner, own real property or have any other type of complex asset, giving options exist that can both help (INSERT ORG NAME) and benefit your family financially.

Legacy society members become a special part of the (INSERT ORG NAME) donor family. They are also honored with (CUSTOMIZE FOR YOUR ORGANIZATION):
